Madras Dyslexia Association takes great pride in offering Samyukth 2013, a conference with the theme - "unite and empower". This is a conference for those of us who support the dyslexic child: teachers, special educators, therapists and parents. It will provide a platform for us to unite in order to empower the child/children being helped. For this to happen, keeping abreast of recent developments in the field is very crucial.

- There is a lot of information available to everyone in the Internet but the Indian experiences: educational, cultural, and social are very different from anywhere else. This seminar will give us an exposure of professionals sharing their experiences and what works for us, in our Indian context.
- It will give us a chance to listen to perspectives of professionals from different fields of importance, associated with the dyslexic child.
- It will give us an opportunity to listen to specialists with a lot of experience in each of the fields.
- The sessions will centre around a practical hands on approach.
- It will afford an opportunity to meet other professionals in the field and network with them.

This is the line-up of speakers:

Dr. Anupriya Chadha works as a Chief Consultant at the National Level for Inclusive Education for Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan (SSA), which is Education For All Campaign (EFA), a programme under the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India. Dr. Chadha has been instrumental in planning and policy-making, preparing modules and material, training teachers and parents on Inclusive Education. Her efforts have led to the enrollment of many special children in regular schools over the years.
